Approved For Release 2004/01/14: CIA-RDP75B00380R000200040050-5

CONFIDENTIAL

Journal - Office of Legislative Counsel
Thursday - 24 May 1973

Memorandum for Record.

Page 2

Osborn, Subcommittee on Intelligence of House Armed Services Committee. The Subcommittee was interested in getting testimony about Agency action taken on letters received from James McCord and to get testimony from about the preparation of General Walters' various memoranda which were previously submitted to the Subcommittee. See Memorandum for the Record.  5. During this morning's hearing I was called by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6. Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle, Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle  Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See	25 X21 5X1A	4. Accompanied Messrs. Houston, Broe, Subcommittee on Intelligence of House Armed Services Committee. The Subcommittee was interested in getting testimony about Agency action taken on letters received from James McCord and to get testimony from about the preparation of General Walters' various memoranda which were previously submitted to the Subcommittee. See Memorandum for the Record.  5. During this morning's hearing I was called by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6. Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle, Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle Subcommittee was interested in getting testimony about Agency action taken on letters received from James McCord and to get testimony from about the preparation of General Walters' various memoranda which were previously submitted to the Subcommittee. See Memorandum for the Record.  5. During this morning's hearing I was called by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6. Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle, Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle		Subcommittee on Intelligence of House Armed Services Committee. The on letters received from James McCord and to get testimony from about the preparation of General Walters' various memoranda which were previously submitted to the Subcommittee. See Memorandum for the Record.  5. During this morning's hearing I was called by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6. Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle,  Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle	25V1A	Subcommittee was interested in getting testimony about Agency action taken about the preparation of General Walters' various memoranda which were previously submitted to the Subcommittee. See Memorandum for the Record.  5. During this morning's hearing I was called by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6. Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle, Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle	25/X IA	on letters received from James McCord and to get testimony from
During this morning's hearing I was called by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6 Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle, Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle		about the preparation of General Walters' various memoranda which were
by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6 Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle, Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle		previously submitted to the Subcommittee. See Memorandum for the Record.
by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6
were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6	25X1
were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		by Jim Woolsey, Senate Armed Services Committee staff. He said they
to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		were preparing to send to the prosecuting attorney (Silbert) and Senator
to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		Ervin's Watergate Committee copies of the McCord letters. Woolsey wanted with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added, however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings. Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		to know if these letters were considered classified. If so, he wished to however, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		include an appropriate warning in his transmittal letters. After checking extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.  Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		with Mr. Osborn, D/S, I told Woolsey the letters were not classified. I added,
Woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.  6		nowever, that as I thought he knew, the documents were sensitive to the Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle		extent that they might be material evidence in future legal proceedings.
Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle		woolsey said he was aware of this aspect of the letters.
Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle	NEV4	4
	(5)(1)	Senator Jackson to Met with Dorothy Fosdick and Richard Perle,
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See		Senator Jackson's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations staff. Perle
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See
Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See Perle then said he would like a rundown on several items. See Perle then said he would like a rundown on covered thems.

CONFIDENTIAL